

PILLAR 03 - PRE-VISIT COMMUNICATION

What patients know before they arrive shapes how the visit goes.

A

CONFIRMATION & REMINDERS

Do they receive clear confirmation of the date, time, provider, and location?

B

PREPARATION

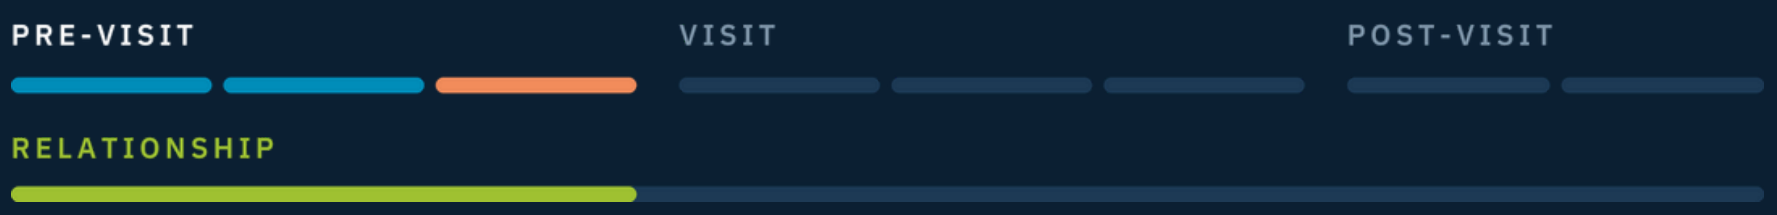

Do they know what to bring, which forms to complete, and how to prepare?

C

DIRECTIONS & ARRIVAL

Do they know where to park, which entrance to use, and when to arrive?

Every unanswered question before the visit becomes a delay at the front desk.

PILLAR 03 - PRE-VISIT COMMUNICATION

Where Pre-Visit Communication breaks down

1

COMMUNICATION PROBLEM

Reminders say when, but not where to go, what to bring, or how to prepare.

2

WORKFLOW PROBLEM

Intake forms arrive late, don’t work on a phone, or ask for information you already have.

3

FINANCIAL CLARITY PROBLEM

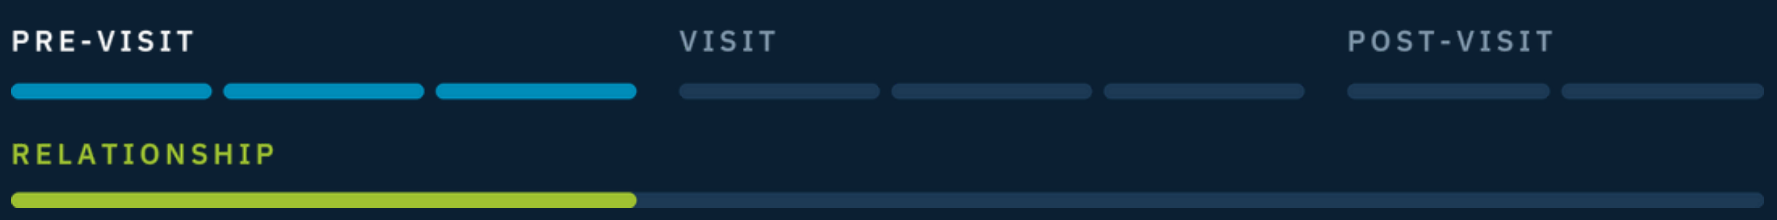

Patients learn about copays or balances only once they’re standing at the desk.

4

HANDOFF PROBLEM

Prep instructions from scheduling don’t match what the clinical team expects.

Patients who arrive unprepared aren’t careless. They weren’t told.

YOUR DIAGNOSTIC

Check your own practice.

Q1 Read your own reminder message. Would a first-time patient know exactly where to go?

Q2 Can patients complete intake forms on a phone before they arrive?

Q3 Do patients know what they'll be expected to pay beofre the day of the visit?

Q4 How often do visits start late because something wasn't done beforehand?

Preparation is part of the experience, not a prerequisite for it.

Not sure where to start? The PX360 Assessment evaluates the patient experience across the full journey.
